Mishap at Osgood Co. Plant Is Fatal to Bucyrus Worker

Luther C. Patton Fatally Hurt in Foundry When Struck on Head by Falling Plank.

Luther Cecil Patton, 43, of Bucyrus was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by a falling board at the Osgood Co plant here where he was employed as a molder

The accident occurred about 3 p m and Mr Patton died at City hospital a short time later Coroner M F Axthelm said that death resulted from a skull fracture, accidentally inflicted

Officials of the Osgood Co reported the accident occurred while Mr Patton was working in the iron foundry of the plant They said that while there apparently were no witnesses to the accident an investigation indicated Mr Patton was struck on the head by a falling plank about two inches thick, five feet wide and 10 feet long

The plank was leaning against a pile of steel "flasks" used in molding and was knocked over by a crane cab passing overhead, the officials reported Mr. Patton apparently was working on a mold and standing a few feet in front of the board The board, as it fell knocked him to the floor.

He was taken to the hospital in the Hughes ambulance and died without regaining consciousness, attendants reported The body was removed to the Munz funeral home in Bucyrus

Mr Patton was a native and lifelong resident of Bucyrus He was born Feb 21, 1897 to John S Patton and Addie Reel Patton and was married at Monroe, Mich., Nov 18, 1915 to Miss Olive Ruth Fowler He was a member of St. Paul Lutheran church in Bucyrus and was affiliated with the A. F of L molders union

ARMY READY TO OPEN DRAFT

War Department Prepared To Register Men in 21-30 Age Group.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Although congressional agreement was still in abeyance on conscription age limits, the war department has made plans, it was disclosed today, to register men from 21 through 30 years old as a separate group in event the broader 21-through-44 age bracket eventually receives approval.

The war department's decision was said to be in the interest of minimizing delay on the actual start of the compulsory military service program, once the Burke-Wadsworth legislation becomes law

The age question continued the major problem today, as the joint senate-house conference committee renewed its efforts to compose the differences occurring in the varying drafts of the Burke-Wadsworth bill voted by the two chambers The committee reached agreement on some minor points yesterday in a six-hour session, lasting until after the dinner hour

Age Answer Due

House conferees were to give their answer to a compromise proposal by senate members for fixing the upper age limit at 39, instead of the 44-year maximum previously approved by house vote.

The senate version of the measure called for registration of all men from 21 through 30 years old, but the house upped this to include all from 21 through 44

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate military committee said the senate conferees offered to compromise on a provision to include men from 21 through 39, but house members wanted to defer decision overnight

With senate conferees thus giving way on the age dispute, some members said there were indications that the house's 21-44 age bracket finally could prevail

In this connection, Rep Wadsworth (R-NY), co-author of the bill but not a conferee, told reporters it was his understanding that if the broader age range was approved, the war department planned to register the men affected in two groups and on separate days.

Younger Men First

The approximately 12,000,000 men from 21 through 30 would be registered first, it was understood, so that their cards might be classified and trainees selected without the complications which would arise in sorting 12,000,000 additional cards to be filled out later by men from 31 through 44

With a decision believed near on the age question, Sheppard said no appreciable progress had been made by the joint committee on the second important controversial point—the house amendment deferring conscription for 60 days while attempts were made to fill the army's initial quota of 400,000 men by voluntary enlistments,

He predicted, however, that agreement might be reached late in the day

PRESIDENT'S LABOR MESSAGE AWAITED

Keen Interest Displayed in Speech to A. F. L. Union.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept 11—Keen political interest centered today on President Roosevelt's address to the International Teamsters convention—an address announced by his press secretary as "in all probability the labor speech of the campaign"

Mr. Roosevelt will make the address in Constitution hall tonight (from 9 30 to 10 p m), but he said to reporters yesterday that no one would be able to tell whether it was political even after it had been delivered

In New York, however, Democratic National Chairman Flynn said it would be a "political speech," and the Democratic national committee arranged to pay for the radio time on two national networks (NBC-CBS)—a possible sign, inasmuch as broadcasting companies charge to carry political speeches

Roosevelt supporters noted that Stephen T Early, White House press secretary had used the word "campaign" in announcing that the Chief Executive would probably deliver its "labor speech," when he addressed the A F L union gathering They said Mr. Roosevelt's remarks would have something of a political nature if the speech lived up to Early's advance description

Another development on the campaign front was the announcement that Mayor F H. Laguardia would discuss "my choice for president" Thursday night in a nationwide broadcast under the auspices of the Democratic national committee

'TWAS A CHILLY NIGHT

Mercury Drops to 40; More Cool Weather Forecast.

After the coldest night so far this season, more cool weather is in the offing for Marion and vicinity, according to the official government forecast.

Temperatures dropped to 40 degrees above zero last night from a high of 72 during the day. There were a few reports of light frost, but apparently no damage was done. A number of persons took precautions to protect shrubbery and gardens

A year ago, Weatherman Raffensperger's records show, the temperatures ranged from 73 to 44, not much different than yesterday.

The official government forecast is for generally fair, somewhat cooler weather, tonight and generally fair and continued cool Thursday and Thursday night.

British Display First Real Secret Weapon of War

By The Associated Press

Britain's volcanic "visiting cards," strewn by the millions on Germany, constitute the first authenticated new or "secret" weapon displayed in more than a year of the European war,

The British acknowledge the existence and purpose of the cards, but are silent on technical details They have, however, let the British Broadcasting company transmit Germany's angered description of the little bits of paper

The cards, about two inches square, are made of phosphorus and guncotton and are carried in damp packages in British bombers, the German assert

One plane can carry as many as a quarter-million of them

Scattered over the countryside, they dry out and burst into flames—a persistent little fire eight inches high

The British say that the cards are effective in setting fire to munitions, supplies in open trucks, and in routing Germans out of hideouts in the woods

That they are effective is indicated by the German complaint that farmhouses, barns, crops in the fields, and forests have been burned and that many persons have suffered injuries from picking them up for souvenirs.

This last suggests that possibly there is printed matter on them.

The British deny a German charge that the cards are poisonous, but acknowledge that they will burn anyone picking them up.

METER YIELD GROWS

Yesterday's parking meter collection netted $115 32, slightly above the previous average revenue, city officials reported today Receipts represented three days' service which amounted to an average of 37 cents daily for each meter, in comparison with a previous average of 33 to 34 cents, officials said Highest take on and single meter was $1 65 while the lowest was 70 cents.

10,000 BOMB LOADS DAILY, NAZI PLEDGE TO BRITONS' CAPITAL

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Sept. 11—Improvement in the weather today enabled large units of the German air force to head across the English channel for new raids on England, authorized sources said. The planes were reported over London, but no details were available.

* * *

By The Associated Press

NAZI quarters in Berlin asserted today that 10,000 plane-loads of bombs daily will be unleashed on the London area in the next few days, striking from French coastal bases in a titanic "all out" assault.

A host of 2,500 German warplanes making four trips daily will carry out the threatened full-scale blitzkrieg, they declared, apparently aimed at wiping out the 2,000-year-old British capital with its 8,000,000 inhabitants.

"I wouldn't give a farthing for the houses of parliament," said a German closely connected with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

The informant said Goering had "left open" the question of whether troop landings would be attempted to conquer the island kingdom, declaring:

"It all depends on how well the British fight back."

"It is conceivable that England will collapse under the weight of our air attacks. Then invasion will be unnecessary. But we are prepared either way."

This unofficial report, if true, would indicate that the next two or three days may see a decisive turn in the year-old European conflict.

The informant asserted that the great waves of Nazi bombers were scheduled to start the assault either late today or tomorrow.

Earlier, Britons excitedly cheered a smashing RAF raid on Berlin today as a belated an*nouncement disclosed* that Buck*ingham palace — the century-old* royal residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth — was partly wrecked by a German bomb.

The king and queen were not in the great white-stone palace when the bomb, a delayed-action missile, crashed from the skies Sunday night.

It exploded Tuesday, demolishing one corner of the north facade and showering splinters of glass over the first floor. Pillars fell in fragments around a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide The blasted section was the glass-walled swimming pool, directly under the queen's sitting room At least 100 palace windows were smashed.

Only household staff members were in the palace at the time, safely huddled in underground air-raid shelters

Promises Hot Reception

Coincident with his curiously delayed disclosure, which was not explained, First Lord of the Admiralty A V. Alexander commented on reports of "mass concentrations by the enemy making his dispositions for entrance into this country," and declared,

"I can promise that if the enemy comes across in surface craft, they are going to get something to go on with."

Waves of British RAF dive-bombers gave Berlin's 4,000,000 an acrid taste of terror from the skies today, knifing through a fierce anti-aircraft barrage to rain explosives on Hitler's reichstag, the Potsdam railway station, the Brandenburg gate and the famous Unter Den Linden—Berlin's Fifth avenue

One unexploded bomb was believed to have dropped barely a yard from the home of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Groebbels.

German Ire Raised

Official and editorial rage over the assault at once gave rise to speculation whether Nazi airmen would strike back at London's parliament buildings, Downing Street and government houses in Whitehall

Adolf Hitler himself has threatened manifold retaliation for every attack by his British foemen.

Hitler's high command admitted that a number of streets in the capital "had to be evacuated temporarily" this morning "because of the danger of houses collapsing."

Bomb splinters slightly damaged the United States embassy, adjoining Goebbel's residence, shattering a window and denting the opposite wall in the office of First Secretary Donald R. Heath.

Huge craters pocked Unter Den Linden. Incendiary bombs crashed to the roof of the reichstag, setting fires which workmen quickly extinguished. Other explosives hit the 150-year-old Brandenburg gate, 85 feet high and 205 feet wide, and fell on Berlin's second largest hospital, St. Hedwig's, which houses 700 to 800 patients.

RAF Strikes Before Dawn

The RAF raiders, striking before dawn in the most spectacular assault yet on the German capital, took a reported toll of five killed, many wounded and apparently heavy damage The raid lasted two hours

Other squadrons of the royal air force bombed German-occupied Belgium, attacking objectives at Ostend, Ghent, Brussels and points along the coast.

German night raiders again subjected London's millions to LONDON, Sept. 11—A delayed-action bomb hit Buckingham Palace, residence of the king and queen of England, Sunday night and exploded Tuesday demolishing one corner of the north front and sending flying glass over the first floor. King George and Queen Elizabeth were not in the palace at the time and a palace spokesman said today there were no casualties.

Reporters were permitted to inspect the wreckage at the century-old royal residence this morning.

The torn-out part was the glassed-inclosed swimming pool, just under the queen's sitting room facing an expansive shaded lawn where the annual July Garden party was given in peacetime.

Great pillars of white stone were toppled in fragments around a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide,

Shower curtains fluttered in the breeze beyond a twisted and torn steel diving platform in the middle of the gaping hole as footmen and housemaids peered down from shattered windows of the three-story building in heart of London.

Only household staff members were there when the bomb struck and they were in air raid shelters, a palace attendant said,

"There was very little damage inside," the spokesman said, "mostly from flying glass and soot from chimneys Paintings and other art objects were removed long ago"

The pool was a favorite with 14-year-old Princess Elizabeth, who already has won swimming medals, and 10-year-old princess Margaret Rose.

MEMBER OF FAMILY OF TEACHERS DIES

A. M. Smith of Martel Passes Away at Age of 89.

Special to The Star

MARTEL, Sept. 11 — Alfred Marion Smith, 89, retired school teacher and farmer, died at his home here this morning at 10 o'clock after a month's illness. A native of Morrow county, he was one of a family of eight children, all of whom were school teachers.

He was born Oct. 9, 1850, the son of William J. and Nancy McClure Smith, natives of Ross and Morrow county, respectively. Both parents also were teachers. He was married at Claridon, Nov. 18, 1874 to Savina J. Douce, who died June 12, 1933.

Mr. Smith taught school at Claridon and also at North Canaan and Climax in Morrow county. He served as Sunday school superintendent at Climax for 40 years and was member of the board of education of North Canaan township and a justice of peace of the same township.

He received his training at Lebanon and at Worthington. Two sons, Earl W. of Gallipolis and Everett H. of Bucyrus, a daughter, Mrs. Elma Downs of Martel, and a brother, Rev. W. M. Smith of North Manchester, Ind., survive. Three sons, a sister and five brothers preceded him in death.

The body was removed to the Timson-Allen funeral home at Caledonia. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The body may be viewed at the residence in Martel after noon Thursday. Burial will be made at Claridon cemetery.

MOTORIST FINED ON 2 DRUNK DRIVING CHARGES

Climax to a double brush with the law came yesterday for Charles D. Mahaffey, about 50, of near Prospect, who appeared in municipal court and changed former pleas to guilty on two counts of drunken driving. He was given the usual sentence on each count which amounts to a fine of $200 and costs, and suspension of driving rights for one year.

Mahaffey first was arrested April 7, 1939 by Patrolman B. P. Hughes of the Marion highway patrol sub-station. The case still was pending when he was arrested again July 22, 1940 on the second drunken driving charge by Corporal W. D. Mariner, officer in charge of the Marion sub-station.

A method has been invented for weaving airplane fuselages and wings from thin strips of plywood, each strip streaming the others that it crosses.

MRS. MARY G. RYAN DIES AT HOME HERE

Silver Street Resident Found Dead After Heart Attack.

Mrs. Mary G. Ryan, widow of the late J. J. Ryan, was found dead in bed at her home at 314 Silver street at 7:30 this morning. She had suffered a heart attack and died some four hours earlier.

Mrs. Ryan 73 years old, was a native of Marion county.

She is survived by a daughter, Mary Katherine Ryan of Cleveland, and a son, Howard Ryan, at home.

Funeral services will be announced tomorrow.

Friends may call at the Ryan home after 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TOTAL OVER $410,000 AS TAX PERIOD ENDS

Workers at the office of County Treasurer Homer D. Cole were up to their necks in figures today, seeking to arrive at how much money was paid in the half-year real estate tax collection which closed yesterday.

Mr. Cole is sure of one thing—the total is more than the $410,000 which he was charged to collect. Payments on delinquent taxes helped boost the total beyond the amount charged.

Considerable money was received by mail at the last minute.

Announcement of the total paid in will be made early next week, after all payments have been posted and books balanced, Mr. Cole said.

GRANGE MEETING

The annual inspection will be conducted by E. A. Williams, deputy master, at a meeting of Bethlehem grange Friday night at 8:30. A program will be in charge of S. B. Stowe, lecturer, and serving as a refreshment committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Augenstein and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fogle.

One Thing Can Beat Germany

THE ostensible purpose of aerial bombing is properly destruction. Actually, the Germans probably are less interested in pulverizing London than in shattering the morale of the population. Their bombing is not confined to military objectives. They wouldn't bother to use whistling and screaming bombs to demolish railroad stations alone.

The question is whether the German aerial barrage will be able to break the British spirit; undoubtedly, if continued much longer it can come perilously close to destroying London as a tenable city. Extent of the damage can be gauged after a fashion by comparison with World war casualty lists showing 587 persons killed in London by aerial bombs; more bombs are dropped in one big raid now than the Germans managed to drop on London during all the World war years. According to German sources, more than 2,000,000 lbs. of explosives were rained down on the city over last week-end.

It is likely the British are underestimating loss of life in the chaos which Adolf Hitler has loosed against their capital. Under the circumstances, accurate estimates of the death toll probably are impossible. Property damage is, of course, incalculable. From what is known of the destructive force of the German air arm, imagination probably couldn't exaggerate the damage being done. But—and the fate of the world for years to come depends on this one reservation—there is no sign that the British spirit is wilting. It is the one thing now which can prevent the thing Hitler hopes to accomplish.

Davey, the Kidder

DEMOCRATS and Republicans in this great state are in perfect and despairing agreement on one thing: Martin L. Davey's a hard politician to handle in a rough and tumble fight.

Secret of his success, of course, is willingness to promise anything. For instance, he is promising now to repeal the state sales tax. This is about as cruel a hoax as any politician could cook up under the circumstances. Mr. Davey should be pinned down to it.

His sales tax promise is pure horse feathers, flossed up with the tried and true gag of pledging himself to appoint a commission to find a substitute for it. Mr. Davey has no substitute and knows perfectly well that no commission would be able to produce a substitute which the legislature would approve. In a word, he has no more intention of doing away with sales taxation than he has of doing away with the rainstorms on wash days—which is one of the few things he hasn't promised yet.

The sales tax is the backbone of the state's revenue system. The revenue derived from it makes the mare go. Ohio, like most other states, has been forced to rely on it for the simple reason that the federal government is replying on income taxation. No matter what name it's called by, the sales tax is firmly embedded in the national tax structure not only as a source of revenue for states but for the federal government, also. Any Ohio voter who lets Mr. Davey kid him into thinking the sales tax is on the way out is in for a cruel disappointment, a fact which Mr. Davey, himself, recognizes by failing to explain how it can be done. Until he explains that to the satisfaction of tax experts, he is guilty of setting a sucker trap for Ohio voters.

Just Guff

ACCORDING to the Oxford English Dictionary, guff comes from a Norwegian word meaning "to blow softly." In the United States, the word means "empty talk." Some current examples of guff:

The fairy story that Franklin D. Roosevelt is so busy tinkering with international affairs that he can't spare the time to run for president of the United States.

The hair-raising snort that Adolf Hitler has prepared horrors for the British which haven't even been trotted out yet and is waiting for some more opportune occasion.

The international understanding that Great Britain gave the United States all those naval bases for 50 worn-out boats which otherwise would have been cut up for scrap metal.

Martin L. Davey's promise to do something about the Ohio sales tax. "Once in a while," said Davey a few years ago, "a demagog rises up and demands repeal of the sales tax and offers nothing in its place. There is no way to explain the mind of a demagog, except that he is for or against anything that will get him some votes."

Statements by congressmen claiming eagerness to be subject to military service...but made after the draft is safely in the hands of a conference committee which has no authority to change a provision making congressmen exempt.

SOMETHING WRONG

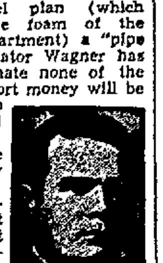
News Behind the News

New Plan Worked Out To Handle Latin-American Cartel Program.

By PAUL MALLON



Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Jesse Jones has called the Latin-American cartel plan (which sprang from the foam of the agricultural department) a "pipe dream" and Senator Wagner has assured the senate none of the new export-import money will be used to develop that moribund program.

But State Undersecretary Sumner Welles, has been working in quiet meetings held at the state department, on a substitute arrangement which apparently contemplates many baby cartels instead of one big one. The Welles effort has been directed toward agreement with Latin-American nations on price and export marketing controls in certain commodities, such as coffee. Each commodity is to be handled separately so that the full scope of the program may not be evident until all are completed.

Kicking

No balking in the three mule team of the army, navy and national defense commission is evident above the buckboard, but there is plenty of kicking under the traces.

Defense commission subordinates are digging constantly at the war and navy departments for what they conceive to be a lack of efficiency in the old army-navy routine. The generals and admirals are retaliating with a few side kicks at the non-military commission experts who "want to start new methods in 20 minutes that we have been developing for 20 years." It is just the same old difference of outlook and methods between the military and the civilian world.

But it has developed to such an extent the old coachman over in the White House may have to be called in shortly to keep the mules in line.

Divided Authority

A source of great annoyance has been the inability of the military services to furnish statistics with sufficient completeness to satisfy the statistically minded officials borrowed by the commission from other departments. Some corrective measures have been inaugurated by the employment of two civilian experts in the war department statistical bureau, but it is not expected that this will solve the situation completely.

Divided authority is another main cause. When the commission called for estimates of needed critical materials, it received two lists from one of the departments which contained different materials.

Dissatisfaction with the commission has become so great, one authority there wants to recommend to the President complete reorganization of both army and navy. It is not likely the situation will get to that, but Mr. Roosevelt will probably be required to appoint a single authority at the head of his chairmanless defense commission to make decisions.

Air Blitz

Mr. Roosevelt's military authorities have sealed their lips and crossed their fingers since Goering opened the air blitz of ruthless destruction. They will make no bets. Only twice before in the history of war has any assailant appeared to have conquered from the air alone—in Rotterdam and in Warsaw. Elsewhere earlier, bombing failed as a primary weapon of conquest.

Watching Greenland

Watchful American eyes have been assigned to Greenland so that the slightest political threat to its peace will be reported immediately to the state department here. Assistant State Secretary Berle has been working on it.

U. S. War Outlook

One of the highest of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatists, commenting upon the popular assumption that more active American participation in the war is imminent, said, "We can't get in, until we have the guns."

Defense-Minded

This formerly economically-minded congress is going to the opposite on defense. During consideration of a $10,000,000 bill for a New York drydock in the house naval affairs committee, Rear Admiral Ben Morreell side-remarked that if he had his way he would put in another $7,500,000 for a drydock at Panama. "Let's put it in" said a member. And after a few minutes discussion a provision for the Panama drydock was written into the bill.

By CLAUDE PEPPER
U. S. Senator From Florida

THE national defense program, long in preparation, rolled into high gear on May 26, when President Roosevelt made his speech outlining our defense needs in the present emergency.

Two days later, the President appointed a National Defense Advisory commission to insure that the defense program should proceed with the utmost efficiency. Since that time, the President, as commander in chief of the army, and navy, and the congress have been working on legislation to increase our army to 1,200,000, to provide material for equipping an additional 800,000 men and to provide the nation with a two-ocean navy and an airforce second to none.

What has been done?

In the three and one half months that have passed since that time, over a quarter of the $10,000,000,000 estimated 1941 defense appropriation has been placed under contract.

Already manufacturers are at work on contracts calling for 10,000 new airplanes.

As a result of recent programs, the navy now has 361 ships in actual commission and work is going forward on 133 ships.

Vital supplies of raw materials are being stored in stock piles. In the case of rubber, arrangements have been made to increase the stock pile by 180,000 tons, bringing the reserves arranged for in this particular commodity up to 416,000 tons. In the case of manganese, over three-quarters of the stock pile has already been arranged for.

NEW contract forms have been worked out which will spread the defense program throughout the country, among manufacturers who have heretofore been unable to participate. Under the first of these policies, large orders may be split up so that the small manufacturer can take part. An adjunct to this policy calls for delivery of materials at the plant door. The government then pays transportation charges, allowing manufacturers in all parts of the country to compete on an equal basis.

And this is not all.

New methods by which the government shares the risk with industry of the costs of plant expansion have been worked out and put into effect on contracts. Notable among these is a single contract calling for 20,000 airplane engines.

SEN. CLAUDE PEPPER

Production of tanks for defense is rising rapidly. Under a single contract, five tanks a day are being produced on a total order calling for 1,156 tanks. At the same time, a $33,500,000 contract calls for construction of a plant to build tanks on a scale and at a price never before thought possible.

Production of a new type semi-automatic rifle for the army will soon reach over 1,000 a day.

Ship construction time has been sharply cut. New ships will come into service many months ahead of original schedules.

THIS policy states that all employment on the defense program should comply with the federal law protecting labor standards, as well as state and local statutes affecting labor relations, hours of work, wages, workmen's compensation, safety and sanitation. It further states, in accordance with American traditions, that there should be no discrimination because of age, sex, race or color and that adequate housing facilities should be made available for employes engaged in the work of defending their country.

Lastly, in regard to labor, the administration of President Roosevelt, which irresponsible persons have declared to be inefficient, has already enrolled a hundred thousand men in the industrial labor training program.

Thousands more are eager to participate in the great work of national defense. For their benefit, the defense commission has made public its new labor policy.

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Sept. 11, 1930.

Emphasizing the almost insurmountable difficulties encountered by the London naval parley in an effort to secure world peace. Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, outlined before the League of Nations his plan for a United States of Europe.

Mrs. Mary Hogan of West Columbia street and Mrs. Alice Hochstetter of Santa Monica, Calif., went to Akron to visit Mrs. Hogan's sister, Mrs. T. J. Ryan.

City council at a special session called by Mayor L. Don Jones voted to place on the ballot in the November election a proposal to levy a one-mill special tax for operating expenses.

Mrs. M. B. Swisher was hostess to the Iroquois club at her home on Forest street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Saturday, Sept. 11, 1920.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Frantson of Bellefontaine avenue.

John T. Russell, 71, former cashier of the Mt. Gilead National bank, died in Mt. Gilead.

Announcement was made that a Harding-Coolidge Republican club formed at Richwood had already enrolled 250 members and the total was expected to reach 700. Owen Livingston was temporary chairman and Doff Zuspan temporary secretary.

A large delegation of Chicago businessmen visited the Harding front porch and heard an address by Senator Harding in which he made a vigorous attack on the provisions of the League of Nations as constituted at Versailles, particularly with regard to the Monroe Doctrine. He pointed out a conflict of terms in the English and French versions of the text, the adoption of which, he said, would "have meant the surrender of one of the most precious inheritances of this Republic or in all probability would have involved us in a controversy with other nations and destroyed our peaceful relations." The Chicago delegation, totalling 543, arrived at 9 a. m. in two special trains which were met at the Union station by an escort of members of the Harding Marching club and Baker's band and escorted to the Harding residence. William Nelson Pelouze, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, was spokesman for the delegation. Two other delegations of businessmen from Indiana and Michigan totaling several hundred, visited Mr. Harding in the afternoon and were addressed by him. He told them that American business had suffered from a "staggering blows" because of too much ineffective meddling by government. "It is equally true," he said, "that good government has almost been allowed to die on our hands because it has not utilized the first sound principles of American business."

History Lesson

(From St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Excited by Italy's success in British Somaliland, Hitler's newspaper says "this is the first time in centuries that England has lost a colony." And gales of laughter sweep the world as everybody wonders where Der Fuehrer found the dumb cluck who acts as his responsible editor.

The class in history will come to order. The date was Oct. 19, the year 1781, the place Yorktown, the chap on the spot was Lord Cornwallis, the occasion was the loss of the greatest colony the British Empire ever possessed.

"The first time in centuries!" Mein Gott! Any bright little boy in mathematics will tell you that 1781 is only 159 years back. Do your stuff, Adolf! Off with that fathead's head!

Executive Confidence

Magazine "Measures" Business Leaders.

CONFIDENCE in Wendell Willkie among the nation's business executives is measured by the first report of the Fortune forum of executive opinion, a new service through which the magazine hopes to give business leaders an opportunity to speak out once a month.

Even in handling foreign affairs, which Mr. Roosevelt himself feels he has been doing so well that he cannot relinquish his office to comply with the third term tradition, the nation's business leaders believe by more than five to one that Mr. Willkie could do better. Nearly 15,000 of the country's most capable executives participated in the first forum.

Their replies to questions also disclosed that:

1. Even in the solid south, business leaders, by better than three to one, have more confidence in Mr. Willkie's untried abilities than in Mr. Roosevelt's seven-year record in foreign relations.

2. By more than 14 to one, executives think Mr. Willkie could do a better job on preparedness and industrial mobiliaztion for war than Mr. Roosevelt.

3. Executives everywhere heartily approve some or all of Mr. Roosevelt's politics designed to achieve social reform, although they overwhelmingly disapprove of his recovery policies.

FORTUNE explained the south executives are only about 12 per cent less pro-Willkie on foreign affairs than those in the midwest. Votes in the rest of the country range between these two.

The forum asked: Do you think a better job of preparedness and industrial mobiliaztion for war can be expected of—

Willkie	91 3 per cent
Roosevelt	6.5 per cent
Don't know	0.2 per cent
No answer	2 0 per cent

"From the answer's there emerges the interesting fact that some or all of Mr. Roosevelt's special reforms are heartily accepted by executives everywhere, but that Mr. Roosevelt's efforts toward recovery are even more heartily rejected," Fortune states.

"Mr. Roosevelt's social reforms are approved, at least in part, by business executives in every part of the country, and particularly in New York City. In New York, indeed, the total of 'yes' and 'some' answers comes to 84 4 per cent.

"It is from the south that the strongest outright condemnation of the New Deal's social reforms comes—35.6 per cent of the executives participating.

"On the question of Roosevelt's recovery policy," Fortune also points out, "executive disapproval is so widespread and so unqualified that the sectional variations in the returns are of no significance."

Art in the Wilds

By The Associated Press

BIG STONE GAP, Va—An art center here in the heart of the Appalachian mountains is bringing art to people who had been 300 miles from the nearest gallery.

The art project, placed by the WPA to study its effect in a community where no painting had existed, drew an attendance of 12,745 in 1936, when it opened, increased to 30,818 in 1939.

Average daily attendance in classes is 100, and at exhibitions, 30. Children and adults participate in all activities.

The oldest student is 62, and the youngest five. One "graduate" of the project is studying art in college, with the support of the community.

Exhibits include works of outstanding contemporary artists and local classes. Twenty portraits of judges and court clerks have been painted for courthouses of the area. Weaving, handicrafts, woodworking and modeling are taught as well as painting.

The Turps

Ethel Insists Newsreels Be Fa
Willkie on Farm Calls for Roosevelt's Famous Grin.

By DAMON RUNYON

Mr. Joe Turp Writes From Brooklyn:

DEAR SIR: Last night I took my wife Ethel to a movie and there was a newsreel that showed Mister Willkie on his farm and a lot of people around us applauded and I ses Ethel that guy sure is popular. She ses you just wait a minute Joe. You just wait until they show Mister Roosevelt and he starts smiling.

But the newsreel did not show Mister Roosevelt at all and Ethel ses Joe that's very strange. There is something wrong here. I ses now do you mean Ethel? She ses why they did not show Mister Roosevelt in that newsreel after they showed Mister Willkie. I ses well maybe he will come on later and she ses no I don't think so Joe. The newsreel is all over. I am going to look into this.

I ses well I guess I can do without him for one night so think nothing of it and let's enjoy the picture Ethel. She ses all right Joe but I am going to look into this just the same. It is not justice. I was all ready to applaud very big for Mister Roosevelt right in the ears of that fat lady in front of us there because she thought she was so smart in applauding for Mister Willkie. I am certainly going to look into this Joe.

WHEN the picture was over and we got out in the lobby she ses to one of the guys who was taking tickets I want to see the manager. The guy ses that's him standing over there by the door and I ses now please Ethel.

I ses I have to get home early and I don't want to waste time having arguments with people and she ses why Joe I am not going to have any arguments. I just want to find out something.

So she went up to the manager and ses if you please sir I want to ask you a question. He ses go ahead lady. That is what I am here for. She ses why didn't you show Mister Roosevelt on the newsreel tonight? He ses didn't we show him? Ethel ses no you didn't. You showed Mister Willkie but not Mister Roosevelt. The manager ses well lady that's very peculiar. I never heard of a newsreel that didn't show Mister Roosevelt.

Ethel ses that is not answering my question. I want to know why. You showed Mister Willkie and gave a lot of people a chance to applaud him but the rest of us who were waiting to applaud Mister Roosevelt never got the same chance because you never showed him at all. Do you think that was justice? The manager ses well lady I do not make those newsreels and Ethel ses no but you show them and you make us pay our good money to see them. Don't you think you are being very unfair to give those people a chance to applaud Mister Willkie and then not show Mister Roosevelt so we can applaud him too?

THE manager ses lady maybe Mister Roosevelt did not do anything lately that called for the newsreel showing him and Mister Willkie did. Ethel ses that is just silly because Mister Roosevelt is always doing something that calls for the newsreel showing him. Besides do you think walking around like Mister Willkie among a lot of cows and pigs is doing something? The manager ses lady that is a matter of opinion and I am pretty busy right now but I will mention your complaint to the people who make the newsreel if I get the opportunity.

Ethel ses are you an American? The manager ses certainly I am. One of my forefathers fought at Valley Forge. His name was Jake. She ses well don't you think it is un-American to show only one side of something like you are doing on that newsreel? Are you sure you didn't take Mister Roosevelt out of that newsreel so Mister Willkie would have no opposition in the applause? The manager ses lady I cross my heart and hope to die if I did. If you come back next week I will have Mister Roosevelt in that newsreel even if I have to dig up some oldies of him.

ETHEL ses yes but that does not do me any good tonight and that fat lady has gone and I ses well Ethel let's go too and she ses all right Joe but I am going to keep an eye on this place from now on because there is something wrong around here. The manager ses to me brother if you hear of me going crazy running this joint you will know one of the reasons why. I have had many a beef from dames, but that is a new one.

When we were on our way home I ses Ethel what is the idea of making such a row about them showing Mister Willkie and not Mister Roosevelt? I ses I remember a week ago they showed the two of them and you applauded for both. Ethel ses that's right Joe. I wanted to be fair. I would have applauded for Mister Willkie tonight if that fat lady had not of thought she was so smart.

Yours truly, JOE TURP.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

Isaac Zane steadfastly remained loyal to the American colonies although he continued to live with the Indians during the Revolution after they joined forces with the British.

He used his status with the tribal allies of the enemy to gain and deliver information to colonial sources, further evidencing his sympathies by acting as a messenger on occasion.

When George Hendricks, a 14-year-old companion of Daniel Boone, in February, 1778 was captured by Indians along with Boone, it was Zane who ransomed him.

Hendricks escaped once, only to be captured and punished, before Zane paid $100 for the youth's freedom in 1779. Hendricks worked for Zane to repay him for the ransom money

King Carol, lucky to escape from Rumania with his life over the week-end, was the last monarch in Europe to wield any real power. He now joins in exile the continent's longest reigning monarch still alive, Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands. Wilhelmina ascended the throne in 1890 at the age of 10. Europe's oldest monarch is Gustav V of Sweden, 81, also in danger of being pushed overboard by the Nazi war machine.

Christian X of Denmark continues to be king only by sufferance of his country's conquerors. Leopold III of Belgium is virtually a man without a country, and Haakon VII of Norway is in the same fix. There is no more Albanian throne: King Zog is out of a job. A former Austrian artisan now reigns supreme in the village where the former kaiser of Germany lived in exile after the World war. It was Mark Twain who observed that "the king business isn't what it used to be."

As a result of the World war four monarchies in Germany, Austria-Hungary, Russia and Turkey—went out of existence. In still other kingdoms, the reigning monarch was dispossessed though the monarchy either was continued or reestablished in Greece, Bulgaria and Albania.

In the victorious monarchies, the king business picked up, in Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Rumania. Yet, a few years ago a king emperor of the British empire was sent into exile by his own decision and now is living inconspicuously and powerlessly in the Bahamas. Victor Emanuel of Italy has little of the prestige which he possessed at the end of the war. The monarchy in Spain went by the board in 1931. Hungary still is technically a monarchy, but without a king.

OHIO RACKETEERS MENTIONED IN TRIAL

Names of Clevelanders Introduced in Scalise Case.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — The names of Don A. Campbell and John E. McGee, Cleveland labor racketeers now serving terms in Ohio penitentiary, were introduced in testimony here at the George Scalise trial.

Appearing as a defense witness, Dillard G Bowles of Cleveland, Ohio organizer for the Building Service Employes International Union (A.F.L.) testified that he succeeded McGee of the McGee-Campbell 'mob' as Ohio organizer in 1936

The prosecution has charged that Scalise, former president of the union accused of stealing [illegible] in union funds, was boosted to the presidency by labor racketeers in Chicago.

Campbell and McGee, serving one to five-year terms, were convicted of extorting $1,200 from Restaurateur Vernon Stouffer before allowing work to be completed on remodeling a restaurant.

Campbell was president of the painters district council and McGee was president of the laborers' district council (both A.F.L.). Stouffer testified Campbell demanded the money and that it was paid to McGee.

The Scalise defense rested after Bowles' testimony. The jury is expected to get the case Friday.

DRIVERLESS, this car ran across a railroad track before crashing into a police booth at Glen Head, N. Y.

The drivers could laugh. Every one escaped injury. It all goes to show that you never can guess what an automobile will do. For every instance where an automobile runs wild or turns turtle without injuring anyone, there is an accident wherein the driver or someone else is injured or killed. Look at these pictures and smile, but don't count on this kind of luck the next time you drive to work or go out on the highway for a pleasure spin.

Ohio Traffic Deaths Threaten To Pass 2,000 Mark for Year

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—Increased motor vehicle registration and greater travel mileage threatened today to push Ohio's 1940 traffic fatality toll to the 2,000 mark for the first time since 1937.

State health department statistics showed 847 deaths in the first six months, compared with 768 for the corresponding period of 1939, when the 12-month toll reached 1,903 Second half totals have been consistently greater than the first six months.

An eight-month survey of 23 representative counties showed general safety gains in smaller counties more than offset by startling rises in a few metropolitan areas.

Hamilton county, through August, recorded 83 traffic deaths, compared with 67 a year ago, while Lucas county's loss rose from 45 in 1939 to 60 this year Butler county counted 26 dead, against 18 in 1939

An exception was Cuyahoga county, which lopped its toll from 124 to 117, despite six more deaths within the city of Cleveland

As contributing factors the state bureau of motor vehicles reported licensing 2,000 more trucks and about 30,000 more pleasure cars than last year, and the Highway Planning Survey charted a 2 76 per cent increase in travel mileage

A survey spokesman said 1940 travel was 14 per cent heavier than in 1936, when 2,165 lost their lives on highways. There were 2,458 killed in 1937 and 1,914 in 1938

The city of Lorain scored a perfect eight-month record, with none dead, although the Lorain county loss of 24 was seven greater than in 1939 Also contending for safety honors were Lancaster and Fairfield county, with 102 consecutive deathless days.

Notable decreases were registered in Summit county, down from 51 to 44, Allen from 20 to 16, Knox from 7 to 2, Athens from 6 to 2, Van Wert from 9 to 4, and Fairfield from 11 to 7

COMMENTS ON BRITAIN

Editor of The Star: In the Los Angeles Times of Sept 6 was this item: "San Diego, Calif—Capt. Byron McCandless, the officer responsible for recommissioning 46 destroyers of the 50 traded to Britain said, 'They are as seaworthy and ready for action as any warships today'."

A Times editorial of the same date read "No informed person seriously believes that aid proposed for Britain out of our own military and naval establishments will end with the 50 destroyers, 600,000 rifles, 750 field guns, 80,000 machine guns, traded-back army and navy planes, shells and ammunition already supplied If such a delusion exists, it will be dispelled by the urging already proceeding from the interventionists that these things are by no means enough; that we should also send the heretofore-refused torpedo boats, F.B.Y. flying boats, tanks and more rifles, and should offer our airfields for the training of British pilots . . . There are other indictments of Mr Roosevelt's conduct of this affair than that he acted on his own, without the knowledge or consent of congress"

He said dictators need only flimsy excuses to justify military action.

Where in the Constitution of the United States is congress or the President authorized to draft or conscript men for the army or navy? Some say it has been done Well, so have dictators done this thing But it is forbidden in Article 13—No involuntary servitude

Whose country is this? If it is a democracy and we believe it needs defending we will volunteer, but not to protect the dictatorship of Churchill over an empire who turned their guns on the French and killed more than a thousand sailors, so reported, after running out of France.

Have we forgotten how they burned Washington once? Perfidious Albion

Veteran Senator in Arizona Loses Fight for Renomination

By The Associated Press

Mounting returns from Tuesday's primary elections found Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz.), long a colorful capital figure, in an apparently losing fight today in his sixth bid for renomination, but the prospects were happier for three of his colleagues.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was assured of renomination by an overwhelming lead. Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite who joined Republican ranks this summer, enjoyed a wide lead in Minnesota over a field of 8 as the choice of his adopted party. And in Vermont Senator Austin received renomination unopposed.

Ashurst, whose opposition to the conscription bill was urged against him in the Arizona campaign, trailed his opponent Ernest W. McFarland by a vote of almost two-to-one Ashurst has been senator from Arizona since the state's admission to the union in 1912.

Long Supporters Lose

Louisiana returns meanwhile indicated that four members of the house of representatives had gone down to defeat, with three others facing the uncertainty of run-off primaries. Gov. Sam Jones, elected last winter by the anti-Long forces, had urged the defeat of all 8 incumbents as supporters of the Long organization. One did not seek renomination.

Besides renomination Senator Austin, Vermont Republicans picked Gov. George D. Aiken, frequent New Deal critic, for the senate vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Gibson (R). Aiken won the short term nomination decisively over Ralph E. Flanders.

In gubernatorial contests, two well known figures were riding high.

Gov. Harold Stassen, keynoter of the Republican national convention, had a huge lead in Minnesota for renomination over two critics of his administration Stassen's activity in behalf of the Republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie, was stressed in his campaign.

Dickinson Wins

Michigan's octogenarian Gov. Lauren D Dickinson, who got national attention some months ago when he condemned by city vice and the evils of liquor, was far out in front of six younger rivals.

Washington's electorate apparently has rejected Governor Clarence D. Martin's bid to become the state's first chief executive to win a third term.

Clarence C. Dill, former U. S. senator, led Gov. Martin for the Democratic nomination by more than 15,000 votes, and his margin was increasing today as returns came in from yesterday's blanket-primary, in which the voter could choose from the candidates of both parties.

Arthur B. Langlie, mayor of Seattle, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination

In the contests for the successor to U. S. Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach (Democrat), recently appointed a federal judge, Rep. Monrad C. Wallgren won the Democratic nomination and Stephen F. Chadwick, ex-Democrat and past national commander of the American Legion, was the Republican choice.

AS surely as the new Buick FIREBALL* straight-eight engine sets the performance pace for the coming season, the graceful silhouette of the new Buick SPECIAL and CENTURY cuts the automotive style pattern for another half decade.
The reason is not alone the grace of its Buick-created lines, nor the appearance of solid substance in action that gives this honey the look of a speedster straining at its leash.
It is the practical quality of great room enclosed in sleek and flowing lines—more room for legs, for elbows, for heads, more room for entrance and more room for carrying luggage—that makes this the silhouette the cars of the future will seek to achieve.
Why wait for that—when in this Buick you travel in a car that, like time and tide, obviously isn't waiting for any man?

MR. AND MRS. R. R. FOX of 189 St. James street are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Robert H. McMahon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McMahon of 247 Bellefontaine avenue. Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Catholic church, read the ceremony this morning at the rectory on North Main street with only immediate families present. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brown.

For the ceremony the bride wore a street-length gown of blue velvet with white lace trim, and her feather turban had a long veil. Her accessories were in black and she wore a single orchid. For something old she wore her paternal grandmother's wedding bracelet.

Mrs. Brown was costumed in a street length dress of black crepe with accessories matching a strand of pearls, a gift from the bride. Her flowers were a corsage of gardenias. The bride's mother wore a gown of navy alpaca with a corsage of Johanna Hill roses, and the bridegroom's mother wore a gown of soldier blue crepe. Her flowers were pompons in a dusty pink shade.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fox were hosts at a breakfast at their home. The table held a centerpiece of pink roses and gypsophila. Later the couple left for Cleveland and a cruise of the Great Lakes. For her going away costume the bride chose a gray wool jersey dress with a striped blouse and black accessories.

Mrs. McMahon was graduated from Harding High school in 1033 and has been employed as cashier with Frank Bros.Co. Mr. McMahon was graduated from South-Eastern High school at Detroit in 1931. He is associated with the Danner Buick Co. and is owner and manager of Bob McMahon's orchestra.

Upon their return from their wedding trip they will be at home at 247 Bellefontaine avenue.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian and Katherine Succeed in Allaying Madge's Fears for Dicky's Safety During Coming Visit to Edith.

"NONE of that 'try' business," Lillian said truculently. "Katrina and I know your soft-heartedness—we ought to call it soft-headedness, and what a prize saps you'd be, if Ede turned on the wall of wanting to see you alone before she died, and we are a self-constituted committee to see that you behave yourself. And we're going to arrogate to ourselves the high-justice, the middle, and the low, so if you don't fancy being hanged, drawn and quartered you'd better be something more than 'reasonable.' Don't you subscribe to that, Katrina?"

"To the last dot on the 'i,' and the final cross on the 't'," Katherine answered. Then she sent an appraising glance around the library.

"There's nothing more to be done here, is there?" she asked.

"No, everything is in readiness," I told her.

'And so is your little study," she said. "I made up the beds myself in there, and saw to it that everything is as near hospital convenience for Miss Whitlock as it can be managed. She'll bring her own equipment, of course, but she won't have anything to do after she gets there save to attend to her patient. I'll stake my professional reputation on that."

Ready for Phil

"That's a whopping big wager to put up on bed-making," Lillian gibed, but Katherine swept on unheeding, and I knew she realized, as I did, that our old friend, veteran of many a dangerous, even deadly adventure, was deliberately being flippant in order to divert me, if possible, from the soul-searing problem that Edith Fairfax presented to me.

"What have you to do, Madge, in the next few minutes?" she asked.

"Nothing," I replied. "Phil will arrive within the hour, he says, but that doesn't entail any work for me, except seeing that my room is ready for him after Edith leaves it, and telling Katie that he and Otto will be here for dinnar and for subsequent meals."

'That won't faze Katie much," Lillian commented. "She's worked so long for the Graham family that she has an elastic schedule, capable of being stretched at an instant's notice. She never knows whether she's going to have six or sixteen for dinner, but she takes everything in her stride, and she'll tuck Phil and Otto into her preparations without fuss."

"The only thing that throws Katie off balance," Katherine commented, "is Mother Graham, and that darling old martinet is so busy in the nursery that she hasn't a second over to bedevil Katie. If she were to appear, we'd have to hog-tie her before she reached the kitchen. Katie must be overwhelmed with work."

"She is," I said worriedly.

Help in the Kitchen

"She won't be today," Lillian said confidently. "I already have assured her that I, a notable wrestler of pots and pans, am going to give her a hand with the dishes, and with any other duties where needed. Suppose I dash down and tell her about old Phil now, and then come back here to see what's doing?"

"A most excellent idea," Katherine answered, and Lillian was out of the room before she had farily finished. Katherine said nothing until Lillian came back. Then she turned intent eyes uopn me.

"Is there any reason why we can't transfer Ede downstairs right away?" she asked.

"Not one," I answered.

"Good!" she commented. "Then you'd have a chance before Phil arrives to get out of your room anything you think might be in the great impresario's way."

There was something in her voice which brought a dry chuckle from Lillian.

"One thing is certain, Madge," she said. "Katrina isn't eating her heart out because old Phil is carrying a torch for Olga. I hope you appreciate my time worn cliches"

Season's Opening Meeting Held by Symphony Board

BUSY weeks are ahead for the Woman's Symphony Board, sponsors of the Marion Civic Orchestra, who opened their 1940-41 season yesterday at Hotel Harding. Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, president of the board, presided, and there was a large and enthusiastic attendance. Approximately 30 new members were welcomed.

This year the board will start its annual ticket selling campaign for the orchestra series the week of Oct. 7. The campaign will be launched with a breakfast and will be in charge of the finance committee composed of Mrs. Robert White, treasurer and chairman, Mrs. E. N. Hale, Mrs. Alfred Donithen, Mrs. Walter E. Hane and Mrs. J. Malcolm Streltitz. The first concert will be given Nov. 26 at which time Miss Paulina Ruvinska of New York City will be the guest artist. A complete list of guest artists will be available by the time the ticket campaign opens, it was planned.

Yesterday's meeting was at an 11:30 luncheon in the ballroom as will be those of the coming months The meeting date has been changed from the second Tuesday to the second Thursday of the month in order to have use of the ballroom.

BAPTIST GUILD HOLDS MEETING NEAR MARION

Mrs. Ernest Debolt and Miss Rachael Callahan were assisting hostesses when the Victoria Christenson World Wide guild of Trinity Baptist church met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Reed Epley of the Harvey road. Group singing was followed by a reading by Mrs. Frank Kochensperger and devotions by Mrs. Dale Gorman. Mrs. Gorman introduced the guild theme for the year, "Light." Mrs. Richard Maxim and Mrs. George Barnhart sang a duet.

Miss Imogene Russell, Mrs. George Barnhart and Mrs. Robert Johnson were named a committee to select a play to be given at a later date. Announcement was made of the Marion Association Guild rally Sept. 26 at Fite Memorial church. A potluck supper will be served at 6:30. A meeting of the Association cabinet will be held tonight at Trinity Baptist church. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party for the members, their friends and husbands some time next month.

Bible verses were given in response to roll call. Mrs. George Barnhart and Mrs. Charles Jones reviewed two chapters of the new study book, "Dangerous Opportunity," by Earl H. Ballou.

Guests were Miss Dorothy Deigle of Springfield, Mrs. Allen Callahan of Mansfield, Miss Dorothy Crane, Mrs. George Gardner, Mrs. S. D. Eckley, Mrs. Joseph Robbins. Gwendolyn Epley, Sandra Jean Callahan and Billy Robbins.

Delegates Named at First Meeting of Altrusa Club

EARLY fall activities were discussed and delegates named to the conference to be held at Detroit Oct. 11, 12 and 13 at the first meeting of the 1940-41 season for the Altrusa club last evening. Miss Arlette Roberts was hostess at White Oaks Farm, with Miss Mary Lois Smith as assisting hostess.

Miss Jessie Lindsey, president, and Miss Ruth Wiant were named delegates to the conference, and alternates are Miss Mary Margaret O'Donnell and Miss Marian Conley.

Miss Lindsey presided for the business session. Plans were made for a rummage sale the latter part of this month, the proceeds to go to the educational fund. Plans were made to devote one meeting to sewing for the Marion County Chapter of American Red Cross. Invitations were received to be guests of the Hamilton Altrusa club on Sept. 15 and the Piqua club on Sept. 29.

The next meeting in two weeks will be a steak roast at Miss Mary Kull's farm east of Caledonia, at which time Miss Bernice Warner of Columbus will be a guest speaker.

Shower Given For Bride-To-Be by Sorority Chapter

MISS GRACE WISE, who will become the bride of Robert Kraner of Cincinnati, Sunday, was complimented with a shower at a social meeting of Gamma Mu chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority last evening at Ringer's Inn. A business session, during which plans were completed for a dance Oct. 5 and a benefit bridge and style show on Oct. 11, preceded a social hour and bridge.

Miss Louise Foreman, president, named the following chairmen for the dance to be held at the Elks' hall with Bob McMahon's orchestra playing the program: Mrs. Earl McWherter, general chairman, Mrs. Nelson Ritzler, tickets, Miss Patricia Stoll and Miss Marjorie Lewis, publicity.

She named the following chairmen for the benefit bridge and style show to be held in the Star auditorium: Mrs. Newell Minard, finance; Miss Lucille Brabson, prizes; Miss Mary Guthrie, tickets; Mrs. Nelson Ritzler, cards; Mrs. Hugh Wright, tables; Miss Hazel Foster, drawings; Mrs. Earl McWherter, tallies; Mrs. Glen Penry, refreshments; Mrs. Ray Sutton, style show; Miss Marjorie Lewis, publicity. Mrs. Theodore Ochs is general chairman.

Awards in bridge were won by Miss Foremen and Mrs. McWherter. The hostess committee included Miss Josephine Craven, Miss Phyllis Hecker, Miss Alice Gertrude Smith, Mrs Nelson Ritzler and Mrs. Ray Sutton.

HIDDEN TAKES POST AT MICHIGAN COLLEGE

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 11—Norman F. Hidden, 29, Briton who faced the bleak prospect of returning to his native country to enter military service while his wife, a native-born German, lanquished in an English concentration camp, today had accepted a position as English instructor in the Adrian, Mich., college.

He will report there Saturday and his duties will start on Sept. 16, local friends were advised. Mr. and Mrs. Hidden have been staying with her relatives in New York, N. Y., while he attempted to obtain permission to remain another year in the United States. If that permission had been refused, Hidden who taught in Kenton High school last term while Harold Wilson, regular teacher, was replacing him in the Macclesfield, England, King's School for Boys, planned to go into Canada and enlist in the Canadian army.

Architect Lynn is now trying to figure out how to get the politicos out from under the dome before some Congressman makes a speech that brings down the house—in more ways than he figured on.

Activities Set At Opening Meeting of Job's Daughters

PLANS for exemplifying the work for members of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday, Sept. 16, and an initiation of candidates in the near future were made last night at the first fall meeting of Marion Bethel No. 2, Job's Daughters.

Arrangements were made for the semi-annual inspection by Fannie Watson of Cleveland, grand guardian. The Marion chapter decided to send Donna Williams, honored queen, as a representative of the Bethel to the annual state session in Cleveland next June where she will hold the position of a guide.

A report of the supreme session held recently in Chicago was given by Mrs. Florence Wood. The next meeting will be a potluck supper followed by a dance Sept. 22.

Members' Tours Provide Topic for Sorority Program

MEMBERS who recently returned from tours of nationally known parks presented highlights of their trips at the first meeting of Ohio Iota Alpha Chapter of Pi Omicron sorority last evening at the home of Mrs. C. J. Altmaier on South Prospect street. The occasion marked the opening of the chapter's fall and winter program season.

"Outstanding State and National Parks of the United States" was the program topic. Mrs. Esther Garster and Miss Vivian Garster presented "Yellowstone"; Miss Mary Haberman, "Floor of Yosemite"; Miss Margaret Kelly, "Mariposa Grove"; Misses Margaret and Regina Lawler, "Muir Woods"; Miss Marguerite Howser, "Sequoia"; Miss Enid Little, "Carlsbad Caverns"; Miss Gertrude Haberman, "Grand Canyon"; Miss Geneva Kruskamp, "Smoky Mountains." Mrs. Altmaier reviewed "Indian Congress and Painted Desert." Pictures taken by the speakers added to the interesting talks.

A social hour followed the program and refreshments were served. The program at next meeting will be a review of "Miss Susie Slagle" by Mrs. Leslie Keyser of Columbus.

VETERAN OFFICIALS WIN IN MICHIGAN

Vandenberg and Dickinson Favored by Voters.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Sept. 11—Michigan's Octogenarian governor, Luren D. Dickinson, and U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg won easy renomination on the Republican ticket in yesterday's primary, incomplete returns showed today.

The 81-year-old governor, famed for his denunciations of "high life" and his claim to divine guidance in the affairs of state, polled steadily away from the challenge of six younger rivals. Vandenberg had an indicated margin of more than eight to one over Bowen R. Gover, Detroit razor blade salesman.

State's Attorney General Thomas Read and O. L. Smith, Detroit attorney, represented Dickinson's chief threats in the gubernatorial race, but they lagged far behind.

The vote, with 2,056 of the state's 3,630 precincts reported, stood: Dickinson 149,433, Read 57,620; Smith 48,454. Four others trailed.

In 2,054 precincts, Vandenberg had 279,784, Gover 31,940.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner won the Democratic nomination for governor in a one-sided contest with Eugene I. Van Antwerp, Detroit city councilman and former national commander of the veterans of foreign wars.

Attorney Frank Fitzgerald of Detroit, a newcomer to higher political fields, won the right to oppose Vandenberg in the senatorial race. His chief rivals for the Democratic nomination were Michael J. Hart, former Saginaw congressman, and Louis B. Ward of Pontiac.

BRITISH TROOPS BOMBED ON EGYPTIAN COAST

By The Associated Press

ROME, Sept. 11—Italian warplanes bombed British troops along the Egyptian coast, the Italian high command announced today. The British were reported at the same time to have sent air raiders from Egypt across the frontier into Libya.

The high command reported 13 persons killed and 21 injured in the British raids on Bardia, Tobruk and Derna in northeastern Libya. Four British planes were said to have been shot down and two Italian planes were listed as missing.

YANKEES BUY ROOKIES FOR SPRING DELIVERY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — The New York Yankees today announced the purchase for spring delivery of nine of their farm club stars, including Kansas City's highly touted keystone combination of Phil Rizzuto and Jerry Priddy.

From Kansas City the Yanks also obtained two of the Blues leading pitchers—John Lindell and Don Hendrickson. Both are right handers.

The Newark acquisitions are outfielder Tommy Homes, and right handed pitchers Norman Branch, George Barley, Allan Gettel and Steve Peek.

The Yanks gave cash and outfielder Buster Mills and pitcher Tommy Reiss to Kansas City and money and two players to be named to Newark. Both Mills and Reis are with Kansas City now.

OFFICERS SELECTED BY JESSIE BUCKLEY CLASS

Officers were elected and activities for the new church year launched at a meeting of the Jessie Buckley class of Central Christian Sunday school last night at the home of Mrs. J. M. SEN. BANKHEAD RESTS AFTER SEVERE ATTACK

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11—Speaker William B. Bankhead, weakened by constant strain of congressional duties in the midst of a national emergency, remained under close medical observation at his hotel today after collapsing half an hour before a scheduled nationwide radio address.

The 66-year old Alabaman, who took over in 1936 a job which had claimed the lives of three men in four years, fainted in his room last night from what Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, said was an "excruciatingly painful" attack of sciatica.

Although Dr. Calver issued a midnight bulletin saying his patient was "resting easily," the physician spent most of the night in the Bankhead suite, cat-napping on a lounge.

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Sept. 11—Edward Good, 63, of Springfield, who had been in the county jail since June 15, was ordered released when Common Pleas Judge Ralph Sugrue found the prisoner had never been sentenced or held to the grand jury. Good was jailed on order of a rural justice of the peace, who alleged a misdemeanor.

STEEL OUTPUT SEEN AT RECORD PEAK

Iron Age Forecasts 46 Million Ton Output for 1940.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — Iron Age forecast today 1940 steel production would exceed 64,000,000 net tons, a record high, if output over the remainder of the year equals the August rate.

The present record of 62,132,448 tons, exclusive of electric and crucible steel was set in 1929.

Pig iron output, the steel magazine continued, might exceed 46,000,000 tons of coke iron, or the second highest on record, if continued at the August rate. The 1939 total was 47,159,744 tons.

"Notwithstanding a slight moderation in the aggregate volume of incoming steel business since the first of the month," the review said, "as compared with August, steel production this week, estimated at 92.5 per cent of capacity, is a full point above the pre-holiday rate and 10.5 points above last week.

"National defense requirements are spreading in total volume and in the number of products affected.

"The five-billion dollar defense appropriation, which was immediately followed by the placing of contracts for 200 war vessels of various types, will call for 498,000 tons of plain steel, for these ships, deliveries of which, however, will be spread over a number of years. The navy's requirements will keep armor plants busy for at least five years.

AYERS SAYS DEFENSE LAGGING BEHIND 1917

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11—Army expenditures accelerated 28 times faster in 1917's first five war months than in a corresponding period of 1940, Col. Leonard P. Ayres declared today.

Asserting that records of actual expenditures "are much better guides for comparing the relative progress of our preparedness efforts • • • than reports of appropriations made or of contracts placed," he said:

"Clearly no such increasing momentum is under way at present."

Col. Ayres, chief statistician of the American expeditionary force, said a study of the United States' World war effort led to this "best rough estimate:"

"Military rearmament is a process that takes us about two and one-half years, if we devote to it the almost fierce energy and nearly universal co-operation that characterized our military effort in the World war."

B'NAI B'RITH MEETS

Opening meeting of the season for the Marion chapter of B'Nai B'Rith was held last night at the group's rooms. Plans were made for a dinner Sept. 24 when wives and friends of members will be invited. Last night's meeting was also featured by discussion of current events. Mr. Coby from New York was a visitor.

Invasion Prelude Seen As General Bombing Resumes

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

There is an ominous look in the Nazi resumption of nationwide bombing of Britain after four nights of blood-bath for London.

This may be the prelude to an attempt at invasion with soldiery. Any such adventure must be preceded by a general and violent aerial assault, to reduce the country to as near a state of insensibility as possible.

If it is indeed the signal then the universal bombing may be expected to rise quickly in a fierce crescendo. At the peak of this the invasion will be tried, if at all.

Whether Hitler will essay this hazardous operation, which stymied even Napoleon, must depend on circumstances. We do know that the Germans have made all preparations for the eventuality—even have a motley armada of small boats ready to dare the choppy waters of the English channel.

The Nazi chieftains will undertake it if there seems any chance of success, for he must achieve victory now at all legitimate hazards. Even a draw in the conflict at this time would do irreparable damage to his hypnotic prestige over the small countries of Europe—to say nothing of giving England a chance to build a powerful war machine against him, and tighten the blockade garrote about his neck.

Only yesterday Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said it was a mistake to call the present drive on England "the battle of Great Britain" and that "Germans modestly regard this merely as the battle of London from which will develop the battle of Great Britain." German military commentators also aver that the attack has just begun.

Allowing a certain amount of leeway for wishful thinking in these statements, there would seem no reason to doubt that the conflict may take on far greater proportions in the immediate future. Irrespective of invasion, this will mean a general onslaught from the air in an effort to destroy industries and other military objectives.

Thus the question arises as to Britain's situation should she stand off the attack but be badly crippled industrially. The slackening off of the battle which may be reasonably expected with the advent of bad weather may find just such a problem on hand.

150 REPORTED KILLED BY BOMBS AT TEL AVIV

Italians Attack Jewish City in Palestine.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 11—At least 150 persons were killed and 150 wounded in a heavy Italian bombing raid on the modern Jewish city of Tel Aviv yesterday, late dispatches from British mandated Palestine declared.

The British command in Cairo previously had reported at least 50 civilians killed, huge fires set and scores of homes destroyed along Tel Aviv's palm-lined avenues. This report asserted the area attacked was far from any military objective.

An American citizen named Pears (first name unavailable) was among those reported killed. Fifty-five of the dead were children, the British said.

Tel Aviv, in the dunes near the port of Jaffa, which also was bombed yesterday, is a city of more than 100,000 population, built largely through contributions of American Jewry, and is headquarters for Zionist organizations.

FEDERAL COURT TRIAL SET FOR TWO MARION CO. MEN

Carl E. and A. W. Jones of LaRue, R. D. No. 2, charged with making false applications to procure a loan through the Marion Production Credit association, pleaded not guilty today in federal court at Toledo, The Associated Press reported.

Their trial is to begin Monday. They are represented by Attorney Grant E. Mouser Jr. of Marion.

Air Swallower

FREQUENT vomiting in babies and young children is a troublesome and worrisome condition Perhaps it is not strange that in examining the histories of a series of such babies Dr Richard L Nelson, of Texas, found that there had been frequent changes of food and formulae, and also frequent changes of doctors He is inclined to believe, however, that the changes of food and doctors is more than the consequence The type of food given is not as often the cause of frequent spells of vomiting as some other factors

Treatment should be directed at the cause of the vomiting

Among common and simple, as well as often overlooked, causes is air swallowing This is due to improper technic of feeding—improperly shaped nipples on the feeding bottles, or nipples with the holes too large or too small, failure to remove the nipple from the baby's mouth often enough feeding in the supine position, or pacifiers or finger-sucking Breast fed infants are subject to air-swallowing from flat or inverted nipples or sucking at empty breasts.

Too frequent feeding is another cause Babies should not be fed oftener than every three hours

Still another mistake is too much food The baby may regurgitate or actually vomit simply because it is overloaded with food The food of the vomiting baby, however, should not be diluted It requires a more concentrated formula with less water

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R C.—"Will you give us a talk on bran? Is it harmful for certain people? Good for others? If harmful, what would the symptoms be?"

Answer—Bran is not digested or changed in the intestines to any extent, and therefore acts as a foreign body For those who have sluggish elimination this is a good thing Many people, however, have intestines that are too sensitive to stand bran successfully Bran irritates them and does them harm The symptoms of this are abdominal discomfort, gas and diarrhea

Marion O. N. G. Prepares For Anticipated Mobilization Call

Co. D and Headquarters Detachment Expect Instructions To Seek New Members When Call Comes.

Members of the Ohio National Guard here today reported on procedure they anticipate if and when a call for mobilization is issued in the coming months.

News reports from Washington, D. C., indicate, they pointed out, that the first contingent of guardsmen will be mobilized Sept. 15. Some 60,500 are expected to be affected by the initial call, and the second call of the same number, expected Oct. 15, will likely result in the mobilization of Marion members.

Making Preparations

None of the army's plans have been announced through official channels but Captain H. L. Taylor of Co. D, 1st Battalion, 166th Infantry, and First Lieutenant Walter E. Mathiot of Headquarters Detachment, 3rd Battalion, 166th Infantry, reported that news accounts have led them to anticipate mobilization.

Just how it will effect the individual members of their respective units is a matter of conjecture, both officers pointed out, but they discussed various possibilities in interviews today.

Co. D consists of 80 enlisted men and four officers, slightly over 50 per cent of the state allowance. Full peace time strength is 126 and war time strength is 146. In the event the mobilization call is issued the unit probably would remain here for 10 to 15 days, during which time new members would be enlisted to bring the outfit to full strength.

Probable Procedure

Should the mobilization order become effective Oct. 15 the unit probably would not leave Marion until Nov. 1. Then it might be sent to a point in Ohio for the organization of the entire division, later moving to a training center, probably Camp Shelby at Hattiesburg, Miss. New arms and equipment, however, are not expected to be supplied before the unit is mobilized.

Under existing regulations, members under the grade of captains and with dependants may retire if the group is mobilized. Fifteen married men of Co. D will be permitted to withdraw Sept. 16 in anticipation of the mobilization. Recruiting is continuing at the present time to take care of these and other vacancies, Capt. Taylor reported.

Headquarters Detachment

Headquarters Detachment, with a present strength of 11 enlisted men and one officer, has a full strength quota of 26, First Lieut. Mathiot reported. A procedure similar to that anticipated for Co D may also be in line for the Headquarters detachment.

Officers pointed out that in early surveys it has been found that approximately 30 per cent of the present guard members are unable to pass physical requirements for mobilization. Efforts to fill these possible vacancies would be made when orders to mobilize are issued.

TON LITTER RAISED BY YOUTH NEAR MARSEILLES

Lowell Naus, graduate of Marseilles High school this year, produced his first ton litter of pigs Sept. 2. The ton litter was made with 10 Duroc Jersey pigs in 178 days. The pigs weighed 2,118 pounds.

The pigs were self fed and had free choice of shelled corn and a mixed pro tein supplement of 50-lb. tankage, 50 pounds soy bean oil meal, one pound salt, two pounds limestone, two pounds bone meal from weaning to marketing, and also were free to run on an alfala and timothy pasture field.

FARM BUREAU PREPARES FLOAT FOR FIELD DAY

Work on the float of the Marion County Farm Bureau which will appear in the huge Farm Bureau "field day" parade at Columbus Sept. 17 is progressing, Roland Leeper, cooperative manager, reported today. The county will be represented by some 300 persons and by a band and marching units.

One of the features of the field day not previously announced will be a barbecue meal, prepared from 20 large steers, with Lawrence Kunkle of the Ohio State university rural economics department in charge.

Gov. Bricker is to speak in the afternoon.

SPRING HILL SCHOOL 50TH REUNION HELD

Former Pupils and Teachers Gather for Program.

Former teachers and pupils joined for the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Spring Hill school Sunday at Blow Inn camp west of Marion on Harding Highway. A picnic dinner was served.

J. L McGuire, who taught for 40 years in the Marion county schools, was the oldest teacher present. He "look up" school by ringing a hand bell and gave a talk on how school was taught in the early days. He was the only teacher in the history of the school to teach three generations, Mrs. Allen Ferguson, her daughter, Mrs. Iva Little and the latter's son, Dayton Little. Talks also were given by former teachers and neighbors, including E. E. Thomas, Mrs. Earl Miller, Carl Shilling and Roy Anderson. A remembrance was sent to Charles Nayler, a former pupil who is an invalid.

Mrs. Mollie Luft of Fremont, who was the first teacher at Spring Hill, was present and gave an interesting talk. Former teachers and pupils of Zion, Tymochtee, Maple Grove and Paw Paw schools were present.

Charles Ferguson was chosen president for 1941, Lewis Anderson, vice president, Mrs. Roy Anderson, secretary and Mrs. Iva Little, treasurer. The next reunion will be held the first Sunday after Labor Day at Blow Inn.

CLASS IS ORGANIZED AT LITTLE SANDUSKY

The Sunshine Banner class of the Little Sandusky Methodist church was organized at the meeting at the home of Mary Swihart Friday. Officers chosen are Mary Swihart, president; Marion Stalter, vice president; Annabelle Mills, secretary; Zona Gail Rasey, assistant secretary; Glenn Mills, treasurer; Alice Jean Swihart, reporter; Mrs. Ira Staluter, teacher. Contests were won by Zona Gail Rasey, Clifford Frey and Lester Staats.

MARION MEN TALK TO RICHWOOD LIONS CLUB

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Sept. 11 — The Richwood Lions club met Friday at Masonic Temple. Robert Bush, member of the Marion Lions club, talked on insurance. Remarks were given by Edward Ruzzo of Marion. A zone chair in Region 4 of District 13. Women of the Claiborne church served the dinner.

INSPECTION HELD AT BOWLING GREEN GRANGE

Bowling Green grange met Friday night for inspection by E. A Williams, county deputy. The following program was given: Vocal solo, Ralph Amstutz; accordion solo, Edna Heller; educational talk, Mr. Barden, play, "Mary Jane and the Census Man"; piano solo by Dorothy Louise Burbaugh; talk, "Why Educate for Life on the Farm?" Mr. Hunter. Plans were made to observe booster night Sept. 20.

1941 Pontiacs on Display at Marion Garage

PONTIAC STREAMLINER TORPEDO 2-DOOR SEDAN COUPE

Models of the 1941 Pontiac automobile will be formally introduced in Marion tomorrow when they are placed on display at the showrooms of the McDaniel Motor Co. at 309 West Center street.

Pontiac will offer three complete lines, known as the deluxe Torpedo with 119-inch wheelbase, streamliner Torpedo with 122-inch wheelbase and the custom Torpedo also with 122-inch wheelbase. All may be obtained either with a six or eight-cylinder engine.

The deluxe Torpedo will be available in six models, four and two-door sedans, sedan and business coupes and convertible sedan-coupe, the latter model with power-operated top. Overall length is 201½ inches.

Streamliner Torpedoes are offered in the four-door sedan, sedan-coupe and a series of bodies with special interior trim. Overall length is 207½ inches.

Custom Models

The custom Torpedo models will be available in four-door sedans, sedan-coupe and station wagon. Overall length of passenger car models is 211½ inches while that of the station wagon is 213½ inches.

Eight colors with fender and wheel striping to harmonize are available with an additional six two-tone combinations at slight extra cost. Canda cloth, corded woolcloth and two-tone worsteds are available on closed models with leather or cloth for the convertible sedan-coupe.

Radiators, hoods, fenders and other metal parts have been restyled but still retain the basic theme known as the "silver streak." Chromium adds highlights from radiator to rear bumper. Horizontal radiator grilles extend from headlamp to headlamp. Heavy duty bumpers are built into the body and guards are spaced to form a built-in location for the front license plate.

Door Sills Lowered

A new method of mounting the 1941 bodies, according to engineers, makes it possible for Pontiac to further lower the front and rear door sills without sacrificing road clearance. In the deluxe and streamliner models individual door steps are completely enclosed and concealed by a flare at the lower edge of the door.

Front seat width of the deluxe models has been increased and now measures 57½ inches, while front seat width of the streamliner and custom cars are 60 and 60½ inches, respectively. Widening of the rear tread of all chassis has permitted further widening of rear seats

New instrument panel features include a light controlled by a switch at the right the speedometer, a safety hook lock operating from a control below the panel and a rolled edge of the dash. Automatic lighting of the interior is provided by operation of a dome light whenever either front door is opened.

New Oil Filter

Pontiac continues its basic engine design. A new full flow built-in oil filter is a new mechanical feature. It is located at the inlet to the line of the crankcase.

Models already on hand here at the McDaniel Motor Co include two of the four-door streamliner sedans. Others expected and may be on display for the formal introduction of the new models include streamliner six-passenger sedan-coupe, eight-cylinder custom four-door sedan and the two-door deluxe sedans.

RURAL SALEM GROUP HAS "AIRPLANE PARTY"

Special to The Star

BEECH — The Rural Salem Evangelical Young People's Missionary circle met Monday night in the form of an airplane party at the home of Miss Juanita Metzger. Names of missionaries were pinned on all as they arrived and were introduced by the name of the missionary. Gerald Klinefelter, president, was the leader of the plane. Prayer was offered by Erma Myers and the lesson study was presented by Adeline Cluff. Dorothy Denzer was elected recording secretary. Current events were given by Mary Ellen Anthony and silent prayer for missionaries was in charge of Dorothy Showers. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zachman, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Glauner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldauf, Mrs. H. H. Klinefelter, Josephine Retterer, Hazel McChesney, Betty Winston, Jennie Showers, Evelyn Baldauf and Wilton Bender.

GALION BOARD ORDERS HEATING PLANT REPAIRS

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 11 — Matters pertaining to the opening of schools and heating system problems were considered by the Galion board of education at its September meeting Tuesday at Senior High school.

The board decided to install new return lines for the steam heating plant at the Senior High school building under the direction of the American Heating and Piping company. A representative of the company who was present for the meeting estimated the cost of this work to be around $3,500.

Resignation of Walter Karnes as janitor was accepted by the board, and the temporary appointment of Ralph Pollock was approved.

The resignation of Robert Holloway, industrial arts teacher at the junior high school was also received and accepted, and his position has been filled by Curtis Howard.

Other appointments made recently by Supt. O. E. Hill which were approved by the board included those of Margaret Rupert, elementary teacher; Paul Mackey, social sciences and coaching; and Earl Sommers, vocational shop department.

Following the board meeting, members were given a demonstration of the new radio, receiving and broadcasting system which has been installed in the Senior High school.

An ironing board resembling a rolling pin cut in half has been designed to facilitate pressing garment sleeves.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS TALK ON FRIENDSHIP

Business Man Who Has Made It a "Hobby" Is Speaker.

Friendship, one of life's most powerful influences and one which was declared to be in greater need today than ever before, provided the subject of a talk given to the Marion Rotary club following its weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday.

The speaker was R. H Wilkinson, insurance man from Warren, O., with whom the study of friendship and all that it means to the human race has become a hobby. And certainly it must be a worthwhile hobby, if hearing Mr. Wilkinson talk about it may be taken as evidence

Over a long period of years he has made a practice of noting and memorizing passages written about friendship by noted authors and as a result his mind is stored with much quotations. He related in his talk that long ago he established a custom of marking some one passage in a book and memorizing it before he retired for the night. These same quotations he also has transcribed into a book, and he had the book with him at yesterday's Rotary meeting.

Some of these quotations provided the subject matter of his talk, which he titles, "Friendship in Books." It is an unusual address and well worth any listener's time, a fact which has resulted in Mr. Wilkinson being called on frequently to speak before service clubs and other audiences. Each quotation from some famous writer provides the lead for some of Mr. Wilkinson's own comment, which is rich in sound, wholesome philosophy. And it's all about friendship.

As an example of the vital place which friendship occupies, Mr. Wilkinson calls attention to the declaration that "Fortune is made or marred when a youth selects his friends."

Another quotation is: "A true friend sees us through his heart, not his eye, and therefore he draws the best from us."

Mr. Wilkinson came here as the result of his acquaintanceship with R. T. Lewis, Marion real estate dealer who is a member of the Rotary club. Mr. Lewis gave a brief talk introducing the speaker.

Guests of the club were Leonard H. Bruce of East Cleveland and Dr. J. G. Morgan of Rushville, Mo., brother of Doctors E. H. and R. T. Morgan of Marion.

$1,000 FIRE HITS FARM NEAR UPPER SANDUSKY

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 11 —Loss of over $1,000 resulted late Monday afternoon when a large barn, a double corn crib and some farm machinery and grain were destroyed by fire of unknown origin at the Theodore Wolfe farm, six miles southeast of here. The family was away from home at the time, the fire being discovered by Mrs. Wolfe's father, Ira Swihart, who resides nearby.

The fire spread rapidly over the barn and through the cribs, also destroying a small tool shed at the east end of the barn, 600 bushels of corn, 18 tons of hay, three loads of soy beans, a wagon and manure spreader. The Crane township fire truck was summoned. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

A container for an anti-moth fumigant is included in the wooden top of a new garment hanger.

FARM YOUTHS' STOCK SHOW PLANS MADE

Fourth Annual Event To Be Held Oct. 15-16.

Boys and girls of Marion county who are members of 4-H clubs or in vocational agriculture classes today were invited to participate in the fourth annual Junior Live Stock show and sale at the Central Ohio Stock Yards in Columbus, Oct. 15-16.

In past years several Marion county entrants have competed and walked off with their share of the prize money.

Eighteen counties are eligible to send representatives. Others in addition to Marion include Morrow, Delaware, Union, Wyandot and Hardin.

The agricultural college at Ohio State university, the division of vocational agriculture of the Ohio department of education, the Producers Co-Operative Commission association and the Ohio agric tural press are directing plans the event.

Claridon Introducing Six-Man Football As Sch

Six-man football, developed in 1934 for the benefit of schools with small enrollments, will make its Marion county debut this fall when Claridon opens a five-game schedule at LaRue.

Although some 40 schools in the state took an active part in the sport last year, Claridon is among the first in central Ohio to put a six-man club on the field. Plans to give the game a trial, with the hope that its anticipated success might pave the way for a county-wide fall sports program, were made a year ago.

A. B. Augenstein, principal at Claridon, promoted the organization. The problem of financing the experiment in the new endeavor was solved by a fund-raising project carried on by the student body. Principal Augenstein, who is also coach of the school's athletic teams, now is directing daily workouts in preparation for the opener a week from Friday.

12 On Claridon Squad

Twelve of the 19 boys enrolled at Claridon are candidates for regular berths. LaRue, host school for the curtain-raiser, has been active for several years as the only Marion county village or rural school represented on the gridiron. A regulation 11-man squad has held forth at LaRue, however, and the roster will be cut to six-members for several contests this season. A full schedule will be rounded out by playing several games of each type.

Ashley of Delaware county and Liberty-Union of Fairfield county also are booked to meet Claridon in six-man competition. No other Marion county school has announced the intention of getting into the sport this season. Many officials and athletes have expressed an interest in it but are awaiting outcome of Claridon's experiment. It is considered likely that a county league may be formed later but it was pointed out that it now is rather late in the season to complete an organization for the 1940 schedule.

Planned A Year Ago

Interest at Claridon began more than a year ago during a general discussion of the sport. Students, Principal Augenstein said, sought the opportunity to try out the game. He replied they needed only to solve the financial problem of equipping players. His challenge led members of the student body to hold a chicken supper, an affair which netted sufficient profit to completely equip 12 team members.

Claridon's grid candidates held a series of spring workouts. With the opening of school the training was resumed last week. A playing field has been laid out at the west section of the school grounds. Those trying for positions are Dick Price, Harry Yager, Ralph Weir, seniors; Merle Lashey, John Price, Wesley Gatewood, Richard January, Bill Mercer, juniors; Bob Mayes, sophomore; Dick McGinnis, Warren Miller, Allen Augenstein, freshmen.

Claridon's complete five-game schedule is: Sept. 20, at LaRue; Sept. 27, Ashley at Claridon; Oct. 4, LaRue at Claridon; Oct. 11, at Ashley and Oct. 18, at Liberty-Union.

History of Sport

Six-man football, an innovation in this section of Ohio, has an interesting background. It was developed six years ago by Stephen Epler, then coach at Chester High school, Nebraska. He set about to create a game which would be adaptable in small schools, unable to participate because enrollment was not sufficient to meet ordinary football requirements.

All basic features of 11-man football are retained. Blocking and tackling, as well as passing, punting and other techniques are essentially the same. All of the various types of blocks in 11-man football have a place in the new sport but their importance differs. Naturally there is less "two-for-one" and mass blocking.

The sport encourages passing since every member is eligible for forward passes. Punting out of bounds can be done more easily and more often because of the narrow field. Size of the field is reduced to 40 by 80 yards. The game has been shortened, 10 minute quarters being regarded as the maximum length.

Lineup of Players

Players comprising the gridiron sextet are a center, two ends, a quarterback, halfback and fullback. The offensive team must have at least three players on the scrimmage line. Four or even five may be put on the line, while

EARLY WHEAT GAINS LOST BEFORE CLOSE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 — Wheat prices rose a cent a bushel today on reports of improved Canadian export business and strength in securities based in more confidence in British resistance but much of the gain was lost later.

Part of the late setback followed the warning of Premier Churchill of an early German attempt at invasion. Official reports showing U. S. wheat exports got off to a poor start in July with clearances only half that of July last year attracted attention to lagging international trade.

Wheat closed ⅛-½ higher than yesterday, September 75¼, December 76¾-⅞; corn unchanged to ¼ up, September 63¼, December 57⅛-¼; oats ⅛ off to ½ up.

STREET DOUBTS BERLIN THREAT

Warning Against London Discounted as Market Stages Rally.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Wall Street traders today discounted a Berlin warning of intention to level London with a stock rally which sent war shares a point or so higher.

It was a cautious market with transactions slow, but the level of advances toward the fourth hour was near its best for the session.

High among the leaders were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Harvester, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville and American Telephone.

Marketmen attributed the lift mainly to the royal air force and its demonstration that Britain is striking back in the air at Germany.

Whether the United States' rapidly increasing production of war materials would be sufficient and speedy enough to bolster England's needs was under constant discussion in Wall Street.

In this connection was remarked the increase in steel output and the prediction made by the magazine Iron Age:

"If steel production over the remainder of the year equals the August rate of 1,361,659 tons weekly, the 1940 total will exceed 64,000,000 net tons, which would be an all-time record."

Included in the losing side of the market was Dow Chemical, which slipped more than 5 points at one time after the company announced an offering of new stock.

Followers of retail shares were cheered by an estimate that department store sales last week rose 17 per cent over the like 1939 period.

SOYBEAN CROP CUT BY BAD WEATHER

Estimates Down 2 Million Bushels from Last Year.

38 DEEDS FOR REALTY FILED

Property Transfers for Week Outnumber Those of Preceding Seven Days.

Thirty-eight transfers of Marion city and county property were recorded during the week ended Saturday, according to statistics in the office of County Recorder Paul H. Naher. The total was one above the 37 of the preceding week and 14 more than the 24 listed for the corresponding period last year.

There were 25 mortgage loans for $44,705 recorded in the week. That was four above and involved $8,638 more than the previous week's 21 loans for $36,067. The total was seven above and involved $3,597 more than the 16 loans for $41,108 recorded in the identical period a year ago.

Of the week's loans 22 for $40,145 were on Marion property and three for $4,560 were on rural land. Banks and building and loan companies made 16 loans for $42,745, of which 20 for $39,045 were on property in Marion and one for $3,700 was on land in the outlying sections. Individuals made the four remaining loans, which involved $1,960. Of the loans made by individuals, two for $1,100 were on real estate in Marion and two for $860 were in land in the county.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Sept. 12

ROMANCE and affectional matters rule this day judging by the lunar and mutual configurations. It is probable that this felicitous situation may be intriguing or under cover. But discretion is admonished, as there might be lurking dangers from circumspection. Social, domestic and artistic engagements take precedence over business. There may be some opposition from superiors, employers or elders. However, the mental faculties may be kept up to meet all situations.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which the social, domestic and sentimental are uppermost, with business in the background. Be circumspect in managing all affairs of a romantic nature. Employers or superiors may offer some opposition. The mind may be keyed up to originality and creative ability.

A child born on this day will have splendid mentality, with originality if not genius in creative work. It will be adventurous and novel in its thinking.

Bermuda Favors U. S. Base, but Wants To Remain Part of British Empire

Political Self-Defense Seen as Part of Motive in Agreeing To Use of Military Space.

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

HAMILTON, BERMUDA, Sept. 11—It will be giving away no international secrets to say that Bermuda offered space to the United States for military facilities as much in political self-defense as in meeting its obligations as part of the British Empire.

Bermuda remains rigorously British.

The islands anticipated some sort of action by Washington and London bearing on an expansion of the American defense system with British soil involved in the agreement, and they were disturbed by unofficial reports that outright cession of Bermuda might be proposed.

Bermuda Goes on Record

The house of assembly in addressing a memorial to the colonies secretariat in London observed.

"The people of Bermuda are deeply disturbed lest some new conception of American hemisphere defense may affect the status of this ancient colony as an integral part of the British commonwealth

"We reaffirm our unswerving loyalty to his majesty the king

"We earnestly pray that the ties of tradition and the bonds of affection which unite us to the mother country may never be severed"

This Bermuda put itself on record while the United States and England dickered

The concern that the colony might not have remained British crops out in casual conversation with the man in the street in these tiny coral limestone islands, 654 land miles from the nearest point on the North American continent.

No War Scare There

Certainly no immediate military emergency dictated the parliamentary move. As in the war of 1914-18, Bermuda has been practically free of invasion scares Its lights continue to blaze at night, and only the normal military precautions of a community at war have been taken Moreover, Bermudians have a sublime faith in the ultimate victory of Englan over the axis powers

The islands income, up to the start of this war, came almost entirely from the American tourist trade, but their tradition and culture have remained staunchly British for more than three centuries

The flutter of the Union Jack and the singing of "God Save the King" are just as indelible evidences of the Bermudian way of life as they are in Whitehall.

So stubbornly has Bermuda adhered to the tradition of royal sovereignty that in the year 1630 the islands defied the rule of the commonwealth under Cromwell, after the execution of King Charles the First, and pledged allegiance to King Charles the Second, at the moment outlawed.

Non-Military Defense Move

It was a defense move of an almost non-military character, therefore, when the island parliament suggested that the great sound, which fans out southward from the incoming steamer lane past Ireland island and Spanish point, could be made available to the United States as a base

Discussion of the subject in parliament savored of an argument in a typical American city council meeting over an appropriation for new paving Some of the legislators were concerned lest United States defense works mar the natural beauty of the islands

To that, others in the house of assembly asked tartly was Bermuda to give the empire the impression that it was pretty enough to discuss the preservation of beauty while the empire was fighting for its existence?

Bermuda does not dislike the way Americans do things 'Visitors from the United States mingle freely with an hospitable populace here, and a Bermudian in the hearing of an American is likely to refer to a Briton fresh from England as "stuffy" American mechanical refrigerators are stock equipment in these households

But Bermuda remains as emphatically British as Trafalgar Square

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY Pedro inquires about John and John writes about Pedro Constance feels she is being honest with neither of them Reexamining her agreement with John she realizes what a spot she is in

• • •

CHAPTER 23

'Try To Understand'

Even the fire, which had died to coals, blazed to new life with Pedro's return. Flames leaped with the draught from the door, to throw bronze lights on the dark face, to reflect flames in the dark eyes

Constance ran an inquiring finger along the plane of his cheek and wondered if all things unattainable became increasingly precious

"You can't borrow without security, Pedro," she chided

"Michael, hasn't anyone ever told you that you can't bargain with love? Child, there's no security in it, nothing but loneliness when you're away, loneliness and doubt and . Michael, how could I talk steer beef when I was thinking of you? I was afraid I'd try to sell some tough hombre on a lot with Irish eyes and skin that rated ninety-nine percent cream."

He released her to build up the fire. The logs caught, blazed, filled the room with golden light as Pedro's presence there seemed to fill it with life and vitality

"What have you been doing while I've been away?" he demanded.

Constance remembered "Thinking, Pedro"

"Too much of anything is dangerous," he chided, and leaned forward to study her — "what's wrong?"

Constance sat thinking, sat watching Pedro She was distrusting John Raskthorne as she had previously distrusted Pedro Why? Was she so fickle, so vacillating, she swung to the man in whose presence she was?

Two months ago she had thought "It is Pedersen, and I against the Taylors and the Cabrillos, with John to back me" Now she thought, "It is Pedersen, Peter Senior and I, against John and the Cabrillos, with Pedro to back me"

Until she was sure she was not alone in this fight for E Cabrillo, until she knew, without question, who would back her to win she couldn't speak; she couldn't risk disloyalty

"I can't tell anyone, Pedro," she answered slowly

"That's all right, providing it doesn't burden you too much. Why not tell me hypothetically?"

Constance wondered if she could break down the essentials and put them into a few words

"Pedro," she asked, "what is victory? Attainment of a thing, a person, a condition, or what?"

"To me, the victory lies in the battle No one can defeat you if you come out of the battle knowing you've given your best. You can lose every earthly possession, every earthly love but as long as you know you have played the game to the best of our ability, you're not defeated"

In the deep sigh which came from Constance, came also her doubts and fears. "Thank you, Pedro" She stretched her hand to him. "That's what I needed to know."

"And I think," added Pedro, holding her hand tightly, "that Michael Mahoney wouldn't count a battle lost until he had been slammed into the bastile and the key was turned on him Even then his luck might turn at the zero hour."

"Now let's talk business," suggested Constance "I'll have Juliano serve dinner in here, provided he'll allow us to remain alone without a duenna Poor Juliano, every time he sees me in slacks, he heads for the chapel to say a dozen prayers for my soul"

Pedro was home and all was right with the world

Quickened Pace

All was right with John Raskthorne Constance wondered how she could have thought John, her friend, faithful, ever-patient John, would have taken advantage of their agreement It was ludicrous They'd find a way to keep the ranch in the hands of the Cabrillos Now all effort must be concentrated on making it a success

Pedro was home He arrived just in time to save Constance from something she was never sure just what it was The last round-up threatened to be a funeral affair Little brown men rode sadly out of El Cabrillo, herding the last beef cattle to market Pedro rode with them They all returned together, in high spirits

Dolores, watching shook her head 'Pedro," she sighed, "from his hand he can make them eat."

Life on El Cabrillo quickened its pace False spring came and the fields were planted The Dutch Belted herd moved into the first quarters, ready and immediately started giving the ranch its first feeling of a dairy

Truckloads of lowing, protesting cows came in from the south to stumble down the runways, look about with resigned eyes, then sniffing food, amble over to feed bins and accept El Cabrillo as home.

Even the Cabrillo men grew contented.

"Senorita," Francisco, a milker, called one evening, " look, Saint Channel Daisy, she iss give increase Since I, Franceesco, have fed thees Guernsey herds, they have grow in thees mielk and thees butter fat. Manuelo, he who hath thos Dotch Belted, he has not soch butter fat." And his brown face beamed with pride above the starched white collar of his uniform

Now it remained only for the railroad to be completed so that they could bring in the rest of the herds and start El Cabrillo Rancho on its road to security

Meanwhile Constance and Pedro rode The hills were no longer sear brown but the tender young green of new grass, and the canyons were filled with mauve mists. Purple rain clouds capped the peaks to shed silver streaks on the lowlands.

The poppies came like golden coins scattered by the careless hands of a Cabrillo, or heaped in mounds flanked by purple lupin

Constance, watching the dark quiet man who rode beside her, found her own likeness to this land Something new, tender and selfless was growing in her heart, veiled from maturing by a promise given in the winter of a strange country

'Who said the sands of time ran swiftly?" demanded Pedro as they sat in the shelter of a live-oak while the spring shower peppered their retreat. "Michael, why three years?"

Constance sprang up and walked to the edge of their shelter, then turned back "Because I promised, Pedro You said, that first day, 'how explain love to one who has never loved' How did I know you couldn't bargain with love?"

He was beside her, was holding her arms tightly "You made some such bargain when you were east," he stated "Didn't you know then?"

"Oh Pedro, how could I tell it wasn't an infatuation, some romantic dream, propinquity . Pedro, how do I know now that it isn't?"

"Don't you know?"

'I Didn't Think'

The rain droned on the trees and the rocks Constance lifted clear eyes to Pedro's "That night I came back, then when you returned from your trip, those two short times I spent in your arms, I didn't think I didn't want to think, it was enough to be . . . to be there with you That's why I asked you to promise there'd be 'no more of this'"

"Love isn't a matter of the brain," Pedro protested. "Marriages that are thought out are loveless affair God knows, Michael, I didn't want to love you I wanted El Cabrillo more than anything in the world until I met you, and then I couldn't fight you to take it away from you

"What I should do is lift you by this mop of blue-black hair, drag you to Beachport, fling you down before the magistrate and say— 'come on, say the necessary I want this woman bound to me so she won't be able to go out bargaining with love' And then drag you home to our home, Michael"

Constance knew in the next moment that was what she wished he could do All of her independence fled her desire to prove herself to the world, her responsibility to the family Even El Cabrillo was no longer home Anyplace with Pedro would be home

He released her suddenly.

"Damn civilization," he snapped, mounted, and waited for her

She saw then it was no longer raining

They rode silently down to the ranch, their horses lifting mincing feet from the puddles, the puddles giving the gold of the sun back with doubled radiance.

Constance was thinking, it's too late now I can't sell out. I can't do anything I'm tied for the three years. I owe that to everyone

"Pedro," she rode close to him, "please try to understand"

Some of the sadness she had seen in his eyes, that first evening at Marias was there, disappointment?

"I am trying, Michael," he answered "I have been, right along I can't understand why, if you love me, you don't trust me enough to tell me everything

"I won't ask you further As I said, it's your battle But from now on it's up to you" He leaned forward to look down into the valley, "What's going on down there . . . at the ranch?"

Through a break in the willows Constance saw the sun glinting down on the wet hood of a car. Don's car Behind it was her own little coupe

"Oh dear," she breathed, "it . . it looks as though the family had arrived Oh dear," she said again, and rode forward, leaving a completely puzzled Pedro, following

The Family had arrived Constance knew it the moment she saw Juliano's face It was radiant He bestowed upon her a most superior lifting of eyebrows as he made the announcement

"The Cabrillos," he said, loftily, "have come to their home . . . to live"

To live . . the Cabrillos.

"Constance!"

John Raskthorne stepped out of the door and took Constance in his arms "Darling, I couldn't stay away from you a minute longer, I—" He looked up, aware only then of Pedro.

Constance looked also The contempt she saw in the eyes of young Peter Taylor seemed to paralyze her tongue

WILLKIE'S ITINERARY ON WESTERN CAMPAIGN TOUR

Canadian Publisher Can't Keep His Gift of Million for RAF Planes a Secret

MONTREAL — (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Grey-haired, tight-lipped John W. McConnell, a newspaperman who ought to know better, realizes now that you can't make somebody a gift of $1,000,000—even the British empire—and keep it a secret

But that's just what McConnell, publisher of the Montreal Star, attempted to do when he casually wrote a million-dollar check to buy fighter planes for the battle of Britain The next thing he did was to instruct his own newspaper not to print a line about it.

Then came an acknowledgement "with pride and gratitude" by British Minister of Aircraft Production Lord Beaverbrook The news got around town in a hurry, but the Star had its orders and McConnell's own employes learned about it though the columns of rival newspapers

Gives His Reason

He finally got around to explaining he gave the money as an expression of "unbounded admiration and gratitude for the heroic work of the Royal Air Force"

That brief explanation amounted almost to a verbal outburst by this man of few words who has been something of a legendary figure in Canada's fiancial world since he was a young man.

Few people had heard much about McConnell when a brief notice in the Star two years ago announced that he had taken over the presidency of the newspaper.

At that time he gave up 14 directorships in some of Canada's biggest industrial organizations, rolled up his sleeves and went to work directing the Star, one of Canada's largest newspapers

Until then McConnell had spent 40 of his 62 years blazing a meteoric career in Canada's commercial life

Forceful Character

In appearance, Mr McConnell gives the impression of great driving force and intellectual ability His dark hair is liberally shot with grey, shaggy eyebrows give him an aggressive appearance. He speaks to the point, and never leaves a visitor in doubt as to where he stands on any particular question.

He was active in war loan and Red Cross work in the last war, and now devotes much time to welfare organizations He lives on exclusive Pine avenue, halfway up Mount Treal, maintains summer homes at nearby Dorval and Val Davis and once was host to the king of Siam.
